Teaching Tip

An interesting idea when teaching social studies is to have your students create a project to reflect their individual history and background. The project should include:

- the origins of their grandparents and great grandparents,
- where they came from, what was going on in the country they immigrated from at the time, and
- what was going on in the U.S. when they arrived.

The students can create a poster, a diarama, a poem, or write a story. Have them use their imagination and be prepared to present their project to the class.

The teacher that submitted this tip also does the project showing her background - much to the delight of her students.

- "Vacuums are nothings. We only mention them to let them know we know they're there."
